Dear Sarah

Product title: NCFE Level 3 Certificate for Mathematics in Everyday Life

Drayton Partners are a specialist recruitment business focussed on securing senior talent for a wide range of branded and consumer-facing companies.

At the heart of talent acquisition is the assessment of candidates. We assess individual's competence to perform a role, their fit to the organisation and their capability to develop. Companies frequently ask us to conduct numerical reasoning assessment of candidates to evaluate their grasp of mathematics but, more importantly, their ability to apply mathematics to real world situations. Candidates who perform well at numerical reasoning are frequently seen as high development potential.

I can confirm that this qualification will prepare students well for the mathematical demands of numerical reasoning assessment as well as providing a strong foundation for career development.

We support this qualification as designed and are happy for NCFE to use this letter on their website alongside the specification.

Yours sincerely
